Mrs. Margo Attinger, 163 Carlisle St., wife of Associate County Farm Agent Fred H. Attinger, was selected "Queen" of the Gettysburg Sesquicentennial Wednesday night and will appear as "Miss Jennie Wade" in connection with sesqui events

Selection was made by members of the Gettysburg Photographic Society at Brua Hall on the College

Ten young women selected from among the applicants appeared for the finals of the contest in which each was asked to read from a history of Gettysburg and to answer questions concerning activities in

While all contestants were photogenic, the more important part of the test was the ability to converse naturally and well, members of the REFORMED society said.

Court Is Selected

"Miss Jennie Wade" will appear in several television and radio shows in nearby cities and the quality most sought was ability to respond to the questioning they will receive on those programs concerning the Sesqui program and Gettysburg.

Selected as the "queen's court" were Miss Charlene A. Patterson, their representatives will help make 27 W. Middle St.; Mrs. Joan Kuhn, 47 W. Middle St.; Miss Lorna F. Wisler, 423 Steinwehr Ave. and Miss attempted when the General Synod Nadine G. Orndorff, Gettysburg R. 5.

The court, in costume of early 31 to September 7. Gettysburg, will appear with the "queen" in the pageant, in the and other events held during the Main Street, USA is going to get a new paint job!

Take the cue from Tomah, Wisconsin, where a "Painting the Town" project sparked an idea that promises to spread communities.

The idea offers such rich rewards and permanent benefits that a number of organizations active in civic improvement have launched a nation-wide "Painting the Town" contest.

It all started when Tomah was getting set to celebrate its one-hundredth anniversary last

Members of Tomah's civic clubs took a look around the town and decided that its Main Street (Superior Avenue) thirsted for fresh paint and hungered for color. For its Centennial. they reasoned, Tomah deserved a face lifting - via the paint brush. Taking a tip from American pioneers whose barn raising projects are now history, they launched a community-wide

"Paint Tomah" campaign. The Tomah Lions Club, joined by the JAC's, the American Legion, and the VFW, sparkplugged the program - from initial planning to some hefty brush wielding by members.

He said he thought the "most constructive and helpful step I can now take toward the re-election of Dwight D. Eisenhower" was to second Nixon's nomination. And he did it, No. 5 among the six seconding speechmakers.

Stassen's chosen candidate to eplace Nixon, Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts, previously had placed Nixon's name formally before the convention. Herter has disavowed Stassen's choice

Stassen noted the rules provided that any delegate might vote for any person he chose for vice president, even if there had been no formal nomination of his choice. If that was an invitation, there

NEW YORK (A)-CBS said yesterday that Ed Sullivan expects to be back on his television show August 6.

Sullivan is in Grace-New Haven Community Hospital, New Haven, D. C. Conn. He was admitted Monday night after a physician noted a slight rise in his temperature. His temperature was reported down to normal yesterday.

The temperature rise had been noted by a physician treating the 53-year-old Sullivan at his Southbury, Conn., home for a fractured rib and a lung bruise suffered in an auto collision in Connecticut Aug. 6.

Sullivan's son-in-law, Robert Precht Jr., 26, of Scarsdale, N. Y., also injured in the collision, was admitted to the hospital in New Haven last night for further treatment of an ankle fracture.

Precht was operated on at the Griffin Hospital, Derby, Conn., after the accident, He and Sullivan were later discharged from that hospital.

ful that Vienna-born twins Ines and Lilo Lang, 25, will have time for much sightseeing, partying or lazing in the sun the six weeks they spend in the nation's capita: this summer.

They are among the many students, educators and writers who trek here each year to probe the great concentration of information housed in such renowned institutions as the Library of Congress, National Archives, Smithsonian Institution, Census Bureau and numerous government agencies.

Ines and Lilo, blue-eyed, snubnosed, vivacious, are among six grade-A students selected by the Population Reference Bureau from numerous candidates nominated by colleges and universities for its summer workshop. The course provided by the private, non-profit agency, which collects, coordinates, interprets and distributes worldwide population data, gives instruction in advanced research methods on world population problems. Share Apartment

The twins, majors in international affairs, are sharing a small apartment which Ines says is the "only place in town hotter than outside." They were aged four when they went from Austria with their parents to Buenos Aires and 16 when they went to live with their grandparents and attend Pomona (Calif.) College from which they were graduated.

Lilo now is working for her master's degree in international relations at the School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University. Ines is working for her master's in the same subject at Yale University. At the workshop both will research into the changing attitude on population growth in the People's Republic of China.

Gooloo H. Sahiar, native of Parsi of Bombay, India, doctor of sociology who graduated from the University of Minnesota, will study fertility trends and genetic aspects of the Parsis in the Indian population. In the fall Miss Sahiar will study as a visiting Ph.D. fellow at Chicago University's Population Research and Training Center. Pretty, red-haired Alice Ann Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Williams, of Elizabeth, N. J., studying for her master's degree in conservation at the University of Michigan, will do her research on the effect of marriage customs on fertility trends in Puert Rico and Jamaica, B.W.I.

WILL QUIT ARMY FOR AIR FORCE

FT.CARSON, Colo. (A)-That fuss over 19 pounds around a professional soldier's waistline is going to cost the Army a mess sergeant. Sgt. James Love, 34, said today the Army has quietly dropped plans to court-martial him for being overweight.

But it doesn't make much difference, Love confided. He'll resign the Army in October and enlist in the Air Force.

Love, a veteran of 12 years' service, said he was among a "handful" of 8th Infantry Division officers and men facing courtmartial for failure to peel off excess fat as ordered. He weighs 212 pounds, and said he'd been ordered to trim down to 193.

A mess sergeant who admittedly likes good food, Love said his unit commander advised him yesterday that all charges against him have been dropped.

"But it doesn't make any difference." he said. "I'll complete six years of my current indefinite enlistment on Oct. 4. Then I plan to enlist in the Air Force."

Why the Air Force? "I prefer it for obvious reasons," grinned Love, a native of Cincinnati.
